1. INTRODUCTION TO MONEY LAUNDERING

IMPORTANT NOTE:

This is a confidential document not for dissemination or use outside Andre Pienaar And Associates, conveyancers and notaries (“the Firm”) without prior approval of Andre Pienaar.

INTRODUCTION TO MONEY LAUNDERING

- 1.1. The Financial Intelligence Centre Act, 2001 (“FICA”), the Prevention of Organised Crime Act, 1998 (“POCA”) and the Protection of Constitutional Democracy against Terrorism and Related Activities Act, 2004 (“POCDATARA”) were enacted in the past few years to prevent money laundering (amongst other things).
- 1.2. In broad terms, money laundering is the manipulation of illegally acquired wealth in order to obscure its true nature or source. “Money laundering” is defined in FICA as “an activity which has or is likely to have the effect of concealing or disguising the nature, source, location, disposition or movement of the proceeds of unlawful activities or any interest which anyone has in such proceeds, and includes any activity which constitutes an offence in terms of section 64 of FICA or section 4, 5 or 6 of [POCA]”.
- 1.3. Money laundering has both macro and micro levels. Typically, at the macro level, money is laundered through a three-step process. These can be seen as a continuum or alone, where proceeds or instrumentalities of crime are laundered only through one of the phases.
- 1.4. The three step process is as follows:-

- 1.4.1. Placement - the initial stage in the laundering process where money first enters the retail economy or the financial system.
 - 1.4.2. Layering – illicit proceeds are separated from their source. Complex layers of financial transactions are created to disguise the audit trail.
 - 1.4.3. Integration – the final macro stage where laundered proceeds are placed back into the economy in such a way as to make them appear as legitimate earnings.
- 1.5. FICA essentially:
- 1.5.1. provides for the establishment and operation of the Financial Intelligence Centre ("the Centre") and the Money Laundering Advisory Council;
 - 1.5.2. creates money laundering control obligations primarily for “accountable institutions” which are listed in Schedule 1 of FICA. Accountable institutions include a broad spectrum of persons and entities including attorneys, estate agents, banks, long-term insurers and foreign exchange dealers;
 - 1.5.3. obliges accountable institutions to establish and verify the identity of their clients, keep records of clients and transactions and to report certain transactions to the Centre. Certain of the duties to report apply not only to accountable institutions but to all persons who carry on a business or are in charge of or manage a business or who are employed by a business;
 - 1.5.4. amends POCA which targets organised crime and the recovery of the proceeds of unlawful activities;
 - 1.5.5. regulates the reporting of terrorist and related activities; and

- 1.5.6. makes non-compliance with FICA a criminal offence carrying severe penalties.
- 1.6. In terms of sections 42 and 43 of FICA, practitioners are required to formulate and implement internal rules ("the Rules") and to make them available to employees involved in transactions to which FICA applies. These Rules have been formulated to comply with these provisions.
- 1.7. While complying fully with FICA, practitioners must, in so far as is lawful, act in the best interests of their clients and protect their common law rights to legal professional privilege.

2. THE REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

- 2.1. Money laundering and terrorist financing is currently regulated by:-
- 2.1.1. POCA;
- 2.1.2. FICA;
- 2.1.3. The Regulations promulgated in terms of FICA; and
- 2.1.4. POCDATARA.
- 2.2. This legislation is in keeping with worldwide trends aimed at curbing the proceeds of crime, money laundering and the funding of terrorism. POCA is an omnibus act dealing, among other things, with money laundering, racketeering and criminal and civil forfeiture. POCA and FICA apply to "proceeds of unlawful activities" which is a much wider concept than proceeds of crime.

- 2.3. “Proceeds of unlawful activities” is defined for purposes of POCA and FICA as “any property or any service, advantage, benefit or reward which was derived, received or retained, directly or indirectly, in the Republic or elsewhere, at any time before or after the commencement of [POCA], in connection with or as a result of any unlawful activity carried on by any person, and includes any property representing property so derived.”
- 2.4. “Unlawful activity” is defined as “conduct which constitutes a crime or which contravenes any law, whether such conduct occurred before or after the commencement of [POCA] and whether such conduct occurred in the Republic or elsewhere”.
- 2.5. POCA sets out the substantive money laundering offences in sections 4, 5 and 6. In broad outline, these offences are the money laundering offence itself, assisting another to launder the proceeds of unlawful activity; and the acquisition, use or possession of laundered property. In view of the import of these provisions, and for ease of reference, these provisions are set out in Annexure A.
- 2.6. FICA complements POCA and provides an administrative framework to combat money laundering. The Regulations (containing also the Exemptions) to FICA were finalised and published on 20 December 2002.
- 2.7. In terms of FICA rigorous compliance obligations are imposed on accountable institutions. The term “accountable institution” is defined in section 1 of FICA and Schedule 1 to FICA contains a list of accountable institutions. Schedule 1 includes “a practitioner who practices as defined in section 1 of the Attorneys Act, 1979”. The Attorneys Act defines a “practitioner” as “any attorney, notary or conveyancer” and “practice” as “practice as an attorney or a notary or conveyancer”.
- 2.8. Accountable institutions are obliged to:-
- 2.8.1. register with the Centre as an accountable institution;

 - 2.8.5. formulate and implement internal rules;
 - 2.8.6. train employees; and

- 2.10. The person responsible for monitoring compliance by the Firm with the provisions of FICA is Andre Pienaar.

3. SCOPE AND PURPOSE OF INTERNAL RULES

- 3.1. The purpose of these rules is to provide clearly for the procedures which must be followed by the Firm in the discharge of practitioners' obligations in terms of FICA.

- 3.2.1. the establishment and verification of the identity of all clients (new and existing) entering or having entered into a single transaction or a business relationship with the Firm;
 - 3.2.2. the information which must be recorded in terms of FICA and how and where those records must be kept;
 - 3.2.3. the steps to be taken to determine when a transaction is reportable to ensure that we comply with our reporting duties under FICA; and
 - 3.2.4. other matters as may be prescribed by the Regulations to FICA.
- 3.3. The Regulations in summary format are attached in the Establishment and Verification of Identity Forms A to H as Annexure B.
- 3.4. A copy of these rules will be made available to every employee involved in transactions to which FICA applies and on request to the Centre and the relevant provincial law society.
- 3.5. Training will be provided on an ongoing basis to all employees concerned to enable them to comply with FICA and these rules.

4. INFORMING CLIENTS OF FICA

- 4.1. Clients of the Firm must be made aware of the Firm's obligations in terms of FICA. In particular, practitioners must ensure that clients know and understand when any information disclosed by them will be protected by legal professional privilege. Clients should not be allowed to act under the misapprehension that all communications with practitioners will be kept confidential when, by virtue of the provisions of FICA, they may be obliged to disclose certain confidential information. Practitioners must accordingly advise existing and new clients, as a matter of course, of the nature and extent of the reporting duties which might arise in terms of FICA and of the distinction between privileged and confidential information. See the section on Confidentiality and Privilege in paragraphs 9.12 – 9.17 below.

5. ESTABLISHMENT AND VERIFICATION OF IDENTITIES

- 5.1. In terms of FICA the Firm may not establish a business relationship or conclude a single transaction with a new client or prospective client unless a practitioner has taken certain prescribed steps to establish and verify the identity of the client or prospective client, as the case may be. Identification of the “principal” and “agent” and proof of authority are required where the client is acting on behalf of someone, or someone is acting on behalf of the client.
- 5.2. FICA also requires the Firm to establish and verify the identities of its existing clients before we conclude any further transactions with them.
- 5.3. In terms of a general exemption granted under FICA, the Firm may obtain a mandate from a prospective client to conclude a single transaction or establish a business relationship without first verifying the identity of the client. However, the client’s identity must be established and verified before the “instruction” or business mandate has been concluded.
- 5.4. A “business relationship” in FICA is defined as “an arrangement between a client and an accountable institution for the purpose of concluding transactions on a regular basis”. “Transaction” is widely defined in FICA as “a transaction concluded between a client and an accountable institution in accordance with the type of business carried on by that institution” and is not limited to transactions involving the flow of money.

6. IDENTIFICATION AND VERIFICATION PROCEDURES

- 6.1. The Duty to Establish and Verify Identity and Exemptions.
- 6.2. As early as possible and preferably at or before the first meeting with a client, a practitioner must ascertain what information and documentation is required to be obtained from the client in order to establish and verify the client's identity.
- 6.3. The process of verification of identity entails that the practitioner should compare the identifying particulars provided by the client with other available information in order to establish whether the particulars provided by the client accurately and correctly reflect the client's identity.
- 6.4. There are different identification and verification requirements depending on whether the client or prospective client is a company (foreign or local), close corporation, partnership, trust or individual (resident or foreigner). As to what information and documentation is required, practitioners are referred to the Establishment and Verification of Identity Forms annexed as Annexure B.
- 6.5. Where a natural person seeks to instruct the Firm as agent acting on behalf of another natural person, legal person or trust, the practitioner is required to establish and verify the identity of the agent and to obtain information which provides proof of the agent's authority to act on behalf of the other natural person, legal person or trust.
- 6.6. If a practitioner has obtained information or documentation about a client without contact in person with the client or a representative of the client, he or she must take reasonable steps to establish the existence of or establish and verify the identity of the client taking into account any Guidance Notes issued by the Centre, applicable to attorneys.

be incurred in the course of litigation. For the purpose of these rules “litigation” includes disputes before legislative bodies such as the Competition Commission or Competition Tribunal, ICASA and other like bodies and where a dispute is referred to arbitration.

- 6.8. FICA contains certain general exemptions which have not been listed above. The requirements of most of those exemptions are incorporated in Annexure B. Some of these general exemptions are dealt with in more detail below.
- 6.9. If the Firm is required to establish and verify the identity of a client involved in a transaction where another accountable institution is also involved, please revert to Andre Pienaar for guidance regarding the applicable exemption.
- 6.10. Client verification is not required where the client lives or is situated in a country where, to the satisfaction of the relevant provincial law society, anti-money laundering regulation and supervision is in place equivalent the anti-money laundering regulatory regime applicable to practitioners in South Africa, provided:-
- 6.10.1. a person or institution in such other country confirms to the Firm’s satisfaction that they have verified the client’s particulars which the Firm has obtained; and

- 6.11. Where the client is a public company listed on a stock exchange set out in the schedule to the Regulations (attached as Annexure C), the practitioner is exempt from obtaining and verifying certain of the client’s particulars. The exemption applies only to the listed entity and not to unlisted subsidiaries or operational entities within the group. - 6.12. The exemptions referred to above do not apply in respect of a medium or high risk client or in respect of a business relationship or single transaction with a client which poses a particularly high risk of facilitating money laundering activities. Practitioners are required to revert to Andre Pienaar for guidance in these instances.

Procedures

- 6.13. At the first interaction with the client, a practitioner should as a minimum obtain the client's details (name, address, identity number, company information, contact numbers, e-mail address and the like) and the exact nature of the entity involved, if any. The client should be informed, as soon as possible, of the nature of the information and documents that would be required in terms of FICA and that the required documents are to be sent to the FICA Officer in electronic format, by telefax or hard copy.
- 6.14. Before any file is opened, the practitioner in whose name the file is to be opened must complete and sign a FICA Verification form (Annexure D), irrespective of whether the client is a new client or existing client of the Firm. The FICA Verification form must be kept on file and a copy sent to the FICA Officer.
- 6.15. When the required or outstanding client information and/or documentation is received by the FICA Officer and he or she is satisfied that the client has complied with all the FICA requirements, the client will have been properly identified and verified in accordance with FICA.
- 6.16. Each practitioner is responsible to ensure that his or her client furnishes the required information and documentation.

- 6.17. A practitioner should not debit a fee or disbursement or accept money from the client in the form of a deposit before the client has been identified and verified in accordance with FICA. To do so would be a contravention of FICA.

Maintaining Correctness of Particulars

- 6.18. Practitioners must, in addition to the establishment and verification procedures outlined above, take reasonable steps to maintain the correctness of particulars of a client which are susceptible to change.

Queries

- 6.19. All queries pertaining to the establishment and/or verification of a client's identity must be discussed with the FICA Officer or Andre Pienaar.

7. KEEPING OF RECORDS

Duty to Keep Records

- 7.1. In terms of section 22 of FICA, the Firm is required, in all matters identified in paragraph 16, to keep detailed records, in electronic format, of the Firm's clients and the transactions entered into with them.

8. ADVICE TO CENTRE OF CLIENTS

8.1. The Centre may, without a warrant, request the Firm to advise whether a specified person is or has been a client of the Firm; a specified person is acting or has acted on behalf of any client of the Firm; or a client is acting or has acted for a specified person. To the extent that some of this information may be protected by privilege and to keep the reporting process streamlined, no person other Andre Pienaar may respond to such request. If a practitioner receives such a request from the Centre he or she must immediately inform Andre Pienaar. - 9.2. Accordingly, a report may need to be made to the Centre where an employee knows or suspects (or ought reasonably to have known or suspected) that the Firm:-
- 9.3. has or is about to receive the proceeds of unlawful activities or property which is connected to an offence relating to the financing of terrorist and related activities;

- 9.7. In terms of section 1(2) of of FICA, a person has knowledge of a fact if:-
- 9.7.1.1. the person has actual knowledge of that fact; or
- 9.7.2. the court is satisfied that the person believes that there is a reasonable possibility of the existence of that fact; and the person fails to obtain information to confirm or refute the existence of that fact.
- 9.8. FICA defines “unlawful activity” as “conduct which constitutes a crime or which contravenes any law, whether such conduct occurred before or after the commencement of [POCA] and whether such conduct occurred in the Republic or elsewhere”. “Proceeds of unlawful activities” is defined for purposes of FICA as “any property or any service, advantage, benefit or reward which was derived, received or retained, directly or indirectly, in the Republic or elsewhere, at any time before or after the commencement of [POCA], in connection with or as a result of any unlawful activity carried on by any person, and includes any property representing property so derived.”
- 9.9. “Money laundering” and “money laundering activity” means “an activity which has or is likely to have the effect of concealing or disguising the nature, source, location, disposition or movement of the proceeds of unlawful activities or any interest which anyone has in such proceeds, and includes any activity which constitutes an offence in terms of section 64 of [FICA] or section 4, 5 or 6 of [POCA]”.
- 9.10. The term “terrorist activity” and the offence of terrorism and offences associated or connected with terrorist activities were introduced into FICA when POCDATARA was enacted. With the enactment of POCDATARA, FICA now also imposes a reporting obligation in connection with property associated with terrorist and related activities which may come into the Firm’s possession or under its control.

- 9.11. The Centre has proposed that accountable institutions include examples of suspicious transactions particular to their industry or profession in their internal rules. Whilst it is not the client, but rather the nature of a particular transaction, that ordinarily gives rise to a suspicion, a list of potentially suspicious client behaviour and transactions that might in certain circumstances give rise to a suspicion, is included as Annexure E.

Confidentiality and Privilege

- 9.12. FICA preserves legal professional privilege and privileged communications need not be reported. In broad terms, that privilege protects from disclosure communications between practitioners and their clients which are made in confidence for the purpose of enabling the client to obtain general legal advice and advice in respect of litigation which is either pending or contemplated or which has commenced. This latter concept of “litigation privilege” also extends to communications between a third party and a practitioner for the purposes of litigation which is pending or contemplated or has commenced.
- 9.13. The privilege is the privilege of the client, not the practitioner. If a practitioner claims privilege, he or she does so on behalf of the client and indeed it is suggested that the practitioner has a duty to claim such privilege. The client may elect not to claim the privilege, in which event the practitioner has no independent right to do so.
- 9.14. The privilege does not operate if the client obtains the legal advice in order to further a criminal end. A legal adviser who knowingly participates in the commission of a crime is not acting professionally, but the authorities suggest that even if he or she had no knowledge of the purpose for which advice was sought, no privilege will attach to the communications with the client if the latter obtained the advice in order to further a criminal objective.

- 9.15. Confidentiality is a wider concept than privilege as information may be confidential even though it is not protected by legal professional privilege. An obligation of confidentiality may arise from contract, either as an express term or as an implied term in a fiduciary relationship, or it may arise from a delictual duty to refrain from disclosing confidential information.
- 9.16. There is an overlap between the concepts of confidentiality and legal professional privilege. Confidentiality is a necessary condition for claiming privilege but is not a sufficient condition for such a claim. The mere fact that a communication was made in confidence will not necessarily mean that that communication is privileged. That privilege only attaches if the communication is made for the purpose of obtaining legal advice, so that a statement unconnected with the giving of legal advice will not be privileged even if it was made in confidence. For a broader background to the basis of the duty of confidentiality and some examples of its scope, read with Chapter 22 of Lewis' book on "Legal Ethics".
- 9.17. Confidentiality, as opposed to privilege, is overridden by the duty to report.

Advising Clients

- 9.18. When a client discusses with an attorney a proposed course of conduct that may, if proceeded with, give rise to a reporting duty in terms of FICA, and the communication is not privileged, an attorney will not be precluded from advising the client that the proposed course of conduct is unlawful and should not be persisted with.

The Right to Withdraw

- 9.19. The provisions of FICA do not impact on an attorney's ethical right and duty not to accept an unlawful mandate from a client or to withdraw from a matter.

- 9.20. The client is entitled to expect that information which would otherwise be reportable that is disclosed to the attorney as part of the process of providing instructions to the attorney for the purpose of obtaining advice or within the litigation privilege, will not be reported to the Centre. Unrelated and incidental disclosure not germane to the privileged situation will not be protected. Dinner table or change room gossip imposes no reporting obligation.

Internal Reporting of Suspicious and Unusual Transactions

- 9.21. To ensure that legal professional privilege is protected and to avoid the difficulties with the concepts “knows” and “suspects” and the severe penalties for failure to report a suspicion to the Centre, employees must immediately report every suspicion to Andre Pienaar.
- 9.22. Andre Pienaar will decide whether or not a report must be made to the Centre as required by FICA and, in the event of a report being made by the Firm, whether or not the relationship with the client will be continued. In coming to that decision, Andre Pienaar will consider the profile of the particular client and hold discussions, if necessary, with the person reporting the suspicion or any other person the Firm deems necessary.
- 9.23. The Firm must make a report to the Centre as soon as possible but no later than fifteen days after a practitioner or employee acquires knowledge or forms a suspicion as contemplated in section 29.
- 9.24. No person other than Andre Pienaar may report directly to the Centre.

To do so would constitute “tipping off” which is an offence under FICA, unless the communication is made:-
- 9.26.1. within the scope of the person’s powers and duties in terms of any legislation;
- 9.26.2. for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of FICA;
- 9.26.3. for the purpose of legal proceedings, including any proceedings before a judge in chambers; or

Cash Threshold Reporting Obligations

- 9.29. Subject to legal professional privilege, the Firm is also required, in terms of section 28 of FICA, to report cash transactions above a prescribed limit, whether or not such transaction is considered suspicious or unusual.
- 9.30. “Cash transactions” is defined in FICA as transactions involving domestic and foreign notes and coins and travellers’ cheques above the prescribed limit.
- 9.31. The prescribed limit is R24 999,99 (or an aggregate of smaller amounts which combine to come to this amount if it appears to a practitioner that the transactions involving those smaller amounts are linked and to be considered fractions of one transaction).
- 9.32. Employees and practitioners must report all cash transactions (as defined in FICA), above the prescribed limit to Andre Pienaar.
- 9.33. Andre Pienaar will decide whether or not a report must be made to the Centre as required by FICA. In coming to that decision, Andre Pienaar will hold discussions, if necessary, with the person reporting the suspicion and/or any other person the Firm deems necessary.
- 9.34. The Centre has designed a secure online login process to enable Firms to file Cash Threshold Reports electronically with the Centre. Such report must be filed as soon as possible but no later than two days after an employee or practitioner becomes aware of a cash transaction or series of cash transactions which exceed the prescribed limit.
- 9.35. No person other than Andre Pienaar may report directly to the Centre.
